

Performance Marketing Diagnostic Checklist

20 questions to find out where your marketing budget is actually leaking — before you spend another month guessing.

1. Tracking & Attribution

- ☐ Can you tie every pound of spend to a specific, trusted conversion number?
- ☐ Do all your markets, brands and channels use the same UTM and naming convention?
- ☐ If two reports disagree (platform vs. GA4 vs. CRM), do you know which one is right, and why?
- ☐ Has anyone actually audited your tracking setup in the last 12 months?

2. Budget & Channel Allocation

- ☐ Do you know your CAC and MER by channel, not just in aggregate?
- ☐ Could you say, with evidence, which channel you'd cut first if budget dropped 20% tomorrow?
- ☐ Is spend allocated based on last month's actual performance, or last year's plan?
- ☐ Do you know your blended contribution margin, or only your top-line revenue?

3. Agency & Team Accountability

- ☐ Does your agency report on outcomes (CAC, efficiency), or mostly on activity (impressions, spend)?
- ☐ Do you have a documented testing calendar, or does testing happen ad hoc?
- ☐ When did you last change an agency relationship based on a hard number, not a feeling?
- ☐ Do your media buyers or agencies have clear, written efficiency targets?

4. Reporting & Trust

- ☐ Could a new CEO understand your marketing performance from your reporting in five minutes?
- ☐ Do your numbers change depending on who pulls the report?
- ☐ Is there a single source of truth, or does everyone keep their own spreadsheet?
- ☐ Do you report platform-reported numbers as fact, or do you sense-check them independently?

5. Leadership & Ownership

- ☐ Is one person clearly accountable for marketing efficiency, or is it split without real ownership?
- ☐ If your senior marketing lead left tomorrow, could the function keep running without a gap?
- ☐ Do you have a plan for scaling budget up, or only for spending what's already allocated?
- ☐ Has anyone challenged your channel mix in the last six months, or has it just stayed the same?

How to read your answers: if you answered "no" or "not sure" to more than five of these, your marketing function likely has a real, fixable efficiency leak — the kind that usually costs far more to leave alone than to investigate properly.
